MIDAS OFFERS A NEW METERING DATA DELIVERY SERVICE

June 2, 2003

MIDAS is now offering a new metering data file delivery service called DeliveredPower. This service is designed for clients who need to load metering data directly into their in-house data processing systems on an on-going, regularly scheduled basis.

The DeliveredPower service alleviates the tedium of having to otherwise manually create the metering data files that are needed to populate in-house data management systems. With the DeliveredPower service our clients can have metering data and/or pool price data electronically 'delivered' to them or 'held for pickup' by them on a daily, weekly or monthly basis.

"Our clients are particularly pleased with the ability this service gives them to fully automate their metering data loading processes by taking advantage of our 'hold for pickup' feature." says Randy Clarke, VP Operations. "It reduces the burden on their resources and gets the data to where it needs to be more consistently and efficiently."
